Transition Activities

Visiting new classrooms and teachers is a hugely important part of our transition process for each year group. Following a recent directive from the Local Authority informing schools that the usual activities cannot go ahead due to bubble-mixing, we have needed to adapt our plans. However, we wanted to reassure you that each class will still meet and spend time with their new teachers before the end of term in a COVID-safe (but still enjoyable!) way. Current Reception and Year 1 children will also get to see their new classrooms. Our teachers and teaching assistants can't wait to meet their new classes and we know the children are excited too!

Planning to Progress – A note from the local authority

In response to the third national lockdown and children only returning to school full time in March 2021, the local authority has worked closely with teachers to create Citywide 'Planning to Progress' documents for English and maths.

These documents streamlined the National Curriculum in every year group and identified essential objectives that would support pupils in progressing into their next academic year. No objectives were left out and the remaining desirable objectives allowed for teachers to further consolidate and extend learning. Teachers have used these guides to plan curriculum lessons that ensure children have been taught the key knowledge and skills in reading, writing and maths for their year group. By doing this, the Programme of Study (POS) for each year group has been adapted as gaps in knowledge have been identified and fundamental learning revisited to secure coverage.

These documents have been used across Brighton and Hove Primary schools and have been also shared with our secondary colleagues who will be using them to inform their planning for new pupils in September. This has provided a consistent Brighton and Hove approach and will support all pupils as they transition to their next stage of learning.
